INDICTMENT (73 Cr. 1039)

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

73 CRIM. 1039

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

- v -

INDICTMENT

MELVIN KEARNEY,
PHYLLIS POLLARD and
JOE LEE JONES, JR.,

73 Cr.

Defendants.

The Grand Jury charges:

From on or about the 1st day of June, 1973, up to and including the date of the filing of this Indictment, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, MELVIN KEARNEY, PHYLLIS POLLARD and JOE LEE JONES, JR., the defendants, and Twymon Myers (deceased) and Avon White, named herein as co-conspirators but not as defendants, unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly did combine, conspire and confederate and agree together, with each other and with divers other persons unknown to the Grand Jury, to commit offenses against the United States, to wit, to violate subdivisions (a), (b) and (d) of Section 2113 of Title 18, United States Code.

A. It was part of said conspiracy that the defendants unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly would take and attempt to take, by force and violence and by intimidation, from the person and presence of others, property and money belonging to, in the care, custody, control, management and possession of banks, the deposits of which were then and at all times referred to in this Indictment insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (hereinafter "federally insured").

B. It was further a part of said conspiracy that the defendants unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly would take and carry away and would attempt to take and carry away with intent to steal and purloin, sums of money from banks, the deposits of which were federally insured.

C. It was further a part of said conspiracy that the defendants unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly would assault and put in jeopardy the lives of persons by the use of dangerous weapons and devices, to wit, firearms.

OVERT ACTS

In furtherance of said conspiracy and to effect the objects thereof, the following overt acts, among others, were committed:

1. On or about July 18, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, Twymon Myers (deceased), named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, drove an automobile containing the defendants MELVIN KEARNEY, PHYLLIS POLLARD and JOE LEE JONES, JR., and Avon White, named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, to the vicinity of the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York.

2. On or about July 18, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, the defendants MELVIN KEARNEY, PHYLLIS POLLARD and JOE LEE JONES, JR., and Avon White, named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, entered the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York.

3. On or about July 18, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, the defendant MELVIN KEARNEY discharged a firearm while on the premises of the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York.

4. On or about July 18, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, Twymon Myers (deceased), named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant drove an automobile containing the defendants MELVIN KEARNEY, PHYLLIS POLLARD and JOE LEE JONES, JR., and Avon White, named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, from the vicinity of the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York.

(Title 18, United States Code, Section 371.)

SECOND COUNT

The Grand Jury further charges:

On or about the 18th day of July, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, MELVIN KEARNEY, PHYLLIS POLLARD and JOE LEE JONES, JR., the defendants, and Twynon Myers (deceased) and Avon White, not named herein as defendants, unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly did, by force and violence and by intimidation, take from the person and presence of another property and money in the approximate amount of $5,000.00 belonging to and in the care, custody, control, management and possession of First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York, a bank the deposits of which were then insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

(Title 18, United States Code, Sections 2113(a) and 2.)

THIRD COUNT

The Grand Jury further charges:

On or about the 18th day of July, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, MELVIN KEARNEY, PHYLLIS POLLARD and JOE LEE JONES, JR., the defendants, and Twynon Myers (deceased) and Avon White, not named herein as defendants, unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly, and with intent to steal and purloin, did take and carry away property and money in the approximate amount of $5,000.00 belonging to and in the care, custody, control, management and possession of First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York, a bank the deposits of which were then insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

(Title 18, United States Code, Sections 2113(b) and 2.)

COURT'S CHARGE TO JURY
(Pages 481-519)

AFTERNOON SESSION

2:00 p.m.

(Trial resumed; jury present)

MR. BERMAN: Before the Court charges, there is a matter I would like to take up, again out of the hearing of the jury.

THE COURT: I recall what you had in mind, and we will take that up at the end, after the charge.

CHARGE OF THE COURT

THE COURT: Ladies and gentlemen, before formally beginning the charge, I want to thank you for your patience and for your cooperation in being prompt. I know that in order to serve on this jury each of you has had to make some personal or business sacrifice in order to do so. But you may also recall that I told you that when you serve on a jury you are playing a vital role in the administration of justice, and that trial by jury is a basic and cherished institution in our system.

I am sure that you know that we all have a stake in the fair and impartial administration of justice. So that any business or personal sacrifice that you had to make I am sure that you were glad to do in the interest of the fair and impartial administration of justice.

Also, before formally beginning the charge, I

1 would like to thank counsel on both sides for their
2 patience with the Court and to congratulate each of them
3 on the high degree of professional skill which each has 4 demonstrated throughout this trial. I am sure you realize,
5 ladies and gentlemen, that if justice is to be done in any
6 case, both sides must not only be represented by counsel
7 but they must be represented by competent counsel. And we 8 have had that in this case.

10 I trust that you will bear with me now and give 11 me that same degree of attention that you have given
12 throughout the trial, so that you may carefully understand
13 the legal principles which you are to apply to the facts
14 in this case as you find them.
15

16 As you approach the performance of your function
17 in this case, which is to determine the guilt or innocence
18 of the defendant who is on trial, please remember that it is 19 your duty to weigh the evidence calmly and dispassionately,
20 without bias or prejudice or sympathy for or against either
21 the Government or the defendant.

22 You also have to bear in mind that every defendant
23 appearing before this Court is entitled to a fair and 24 impartial trial regardless of his occupation or station in 25 life.

Also, the fact that the Government is a party

1 wc

483

2 here, that the prosecution is brought in the name of the 3 United States of America, entitles it to no greater
4 consideration than that which is accorded any other litigant
5 in a lawsuit. By the same token, it is entitled to no
6 less consideration. That is because all parties -- the 7 Government and individuals alike -- stand equal before the 8 law.

9 In the indictment in this case there are four 10 separate counts or charges made, and you must return a 11 separate verdict as to each count. Your verdict will be 12 either guilty or not guilty. Your verdict as to each 13 count must be based solely on the testimony which you have 14 heard from the witness stand, on the exhibits which were 15 actually received in evidence, and on any stipulations as 16 to certain facts which the lawyers may have entered into,
17 and on nothing else. Your verdict, of course, as to each
18 count must be a unanimous verdict.

19 In the indictment, as you know, three persons are 20 named as defendants: Melvin Kearney, Phyllis Pollard, and 21 Joe Lee Jones. You are not to speculate as to why certain
22 defendants are not on trial. There is only one defendant
23 on trial, and it is only one defendant whose guilt or 24 innocence you must consider today in returning your verdict.
25 However, of course, in considering his guilt or innocence,

1 wc
2 you will have to consider testimony relating to other
3 persons named as defendants in the indictment.

4 As the sole and exclusive judges of the facts
5 in this case, which means that you pass upon the weight of 6 the evidence, you determine the credibility or believability
7 of the witnesses who testified here, you resolve such 8 conflicts as there may be in the testimony and other
9 evidence, and you draw such reasonable inferences as may be 10 warranted by the testimony or other evidence in the case.

11 Again, with respect to any matter of fact, it
12 is your recollection which controls and not mine and not the 13 lawyers.

14 With respect to the testimony, I want to remind
15 you that you have to consider both the direct examination
16 and the cross-examination of each witness. If in the course
17 of these charges or instructions I should refer to some of 18 the testimony in the case, that does not mean that I think
19 that is the most important testimony or the only testimony
20 you should consider or the only evidence. You have to con-
21 sider all the testimony and all the evidence in arriving at 22 your determination.

23 My function is to instruct you as to the law,
24 and you should accept the law as I state it to you in these 25 instructions. The logical result of that application of

2 the law as stated to you to the facts as you find them is 3 a verdict in the case, and again you must find a separate
4 verdict or return a separate verdict as to each count
5 separately.

7 I want to caution you that you are not to single 8 out any one instruction alone as stating the law, but you
9 have to consider these instructions as a whole.

10 You are not to assume that I have any opinion
11 ~~as to~~ to the guilt or innocence of this defendant or the truth
12 or falsity of any of the charges made in the indictment.
13 The fact that I have granted motions or denied motions is 14 not to be construed by you as any indication on my part
15 that the Court believes the defendant to be guilty or not 16 guilty or the charges true or not true. That is because,
17 as I told you earlier, my ruling on any motion or objection
18 has to do with questions of law and not questions of fact.

19 If, during the course of the trial, a question was 20 asked and an objection was interposed and I sustained the 21 objection, you are to disregard the question and any alleged 22 facts contained in that question. Similarly, if I rule that 23 an answer be stricken, you are to disregard both the question
24 and the answer.

25 As you well know, the defendant has entered a plea of not guilty to each count made against him in this

1 wc

486

2 indictment. As a result, the Government, if defendant is 3 to be convicted on a particular count, has the burden of 4 proving that the defendant is guilty as to that particular
5 count beyond a reasonable doubt.

6 That is a burden which never shifts. As I told
7 you when you first came in here, that is a burden which re-
8 mains upon the Government throughout the entire trial.
9 A defendant is not required to prove his innocence. He 10 does not have to say anything. He does not have to cross-
11 examine witnesses. He could just sit there.

12 A defendant in a criminal case is presumed to be 13 innocent. This presumption of innocence, as I have just 14 said, remains with him throughout the trial. It is in his 15 favor even as I instruct you now. This presumption of 16 innocence is in his favor even when you go into the jury
17 room soon to deliberate. That presumption of innocence is 18 removed only if and when, after your deliberations, you are 19 convinced that the Government has sustained its burden of 20 proof, and that is that it has produced evidence here which 21 convinces you that the defendant is guilty as charged beyond
22 a reasonable doubt.

23 The question which naturally comes up is: What 24 is a reasonable doubt? The words almost define themselves.
25 Reasonable doubt is a doubt founded in reason and arising

1 out of the evidence in the case or the lack of evidence. It
2 is a doubt which a reasonable person has, after carefully
3 weighing all the evidence, the kind of doubt which would 4 make one hesitate to act. It means a doubt which is 5 substantial and not merely shadowy. A reasonable doubt is 6 one which appeals to your reason, your judgment, and your 7 common sense and your experiences in life. It is not 8 caprice, whim, or speculation. It is not an excuse to 9 avoid the performance of an unpleasant duty. It is not 10 sympathy for a defendant.

11
12 If, after fair and impartial consideration of all
13 the evidence, you can candidly and honestly say that you
14 are not satisfied of the guilt of this defendant and that 15 you do not have an abiding conviction as to this defendant's
16 guilt, such a conviction as you would be willing to act
17 upon unhesitatingly in important and weighty matters in the 18 personal affairs of your own life, then you have a reasonable
19 doubt and in that circumstance it is your duty to acquit
20 the defendant.

21 On the other hand, if, after such a fair and 22 impartial consideration of all the evidence, you can 23 candidly and honestly say that you are satisfied of the 24 guilt of this defendant, that you do have an abiding con-
25 viction as to this defendant's guilt, such a conviction as

1 wc

488

2 you would be willing to act upon unhesitatingly in 3 important and weighty matters in the personal affairs of 4 your own life, then you have no reasonable doubt and in that 5 circumstance you may convict the defendant.

6 A reasonable doubt does not mean a positive
7 certainty beyond all possible doubt. It is practically
8 impossible for a person to be absolutely and completely con-
9 vinced about any controverted fact which by its nature is 10 not subject to mathematical certainty. In consequence, the 11 law in a criminal case is that it is sufficient if the guilt
12 of a defendant is established beyond a reasonable doubt,
13 not beyond all possible doubt.

14 As I told you, you as jurors are the sole judges
15 of the credibility of the witnesses and the weight which 16 their testimony deserves. You know, of course, that there
17 is no automatic way to determine who is telling the truth
18 and who is not. Credibility can be equated with believability
19 and reliability. If a witness is credible, you say he is 20 believable and reliable. If he is incredible, you say he 21 is unbelievable. There is nothing mysterious about these 22 words.

23 By what yardstick are you to judge the credibility
24 of the witnesses? Each of you has given careful attention
25 to the testimony as it came from the witnesses themselves.

1 wc
2 You observed the witnesses. They sat right here in front
3 of you where you could see them, the way they testified.

4 Issues of fact are presented for your determina-
5 tion. To a large extent the resolution of them depends
6 upon the credibility of the witnesses and the support or 7 lack of support they receive from other credible evidence
8 in the case.

9 Your duty is to decide the issues of fact. Use
10 your logic, your reason and your common sense. Don't be 11 sidetracked or diverted or distracted by what you consider 12 to be a minor or insignificant detail or irrelevancy, or by 13 what you consider to be an appeal not to your reason or 14 logic but to mere sentimentality or unthinking passion.

15 I repeat, use your common sense. You should 16 carefully scrutinize all the testimony given, as I have 17 said, both direct and cross-examination, the circumstances
18 under which each witness has testified, and every matter
19 in evidence which tends to show whether a witness is worthy
20 of belief. Consider each witness' intelligence, motive,
21 and state of mind, and demeanor and manner while on the 22 witness stand. Consider each witness' ability to observe 23 the matters as to which he has testified and whether he 24 impresses you as having an accurate recollection of these 25 matters. Consider also any relation each witness might

1 wc
2 bear to either side of the case, the manner in which each
3 witness might be affected by the verdict, and the extent
4 to which, if at all, each witness is either supported or 5 contradicted by other evidence in the case.

6 Inconsistencies or discrepancies in the testimony
7 of a witness, or between the testimony of different
8 witnesses, may or may not cause a jury to discredit such 9 testimony. Two or more persons witnessing an incident or 10 a transaction may see or hear it differently. An innocent
11 misrecollection, like failure of recollection, is not an 12 uncommon experience. In weighing the effect of a discrepancy,
13 always consider whether it pertains to a matter of importance
14 or unimportant detail and whether the discrepancy results
15 from innocent error or intentional falsehood.

16 You should not be influenced by the number of 17 witnesses that either side has called or the number of 18 documents received in evidence, because it is the quality
19 of the testimony and other evidence which counts, not the 20 quantity.

21 After making your own judgment, you will give the 22 testimony of each witness such credibility, if any, as you
23 think it deserves.

24 If you find that any witness has wilfully
25 testified falsely as to any material matter, you may reject

1 wc
2 the entire testimony of that witness or you may accept
3 such part or portion as commends itself to your belief or 4 which you find corroborated by other evidence in the case.

5 The testimony of a witness may be discredited or 6 impeached by showing that the witness has been convicted
7 of a felony. Prior conviction does not render a witness
8 incompetent to testify but is a circumstance which you may 9 consider in determining the credibility of such witnesses.

10 As I told you when the trial commenced, an 11 indictment is not proof or evidence. It is merely an 12 accusation or a charge made by a grand jury. It is a 13 method or technique or procedure which we employ in our 14 system whereby persons who are accused by a grand jury of 15 crimes are brought into court and then their guilt or 16 innocence is determined by a petit jury or trial jury such 17 as you are.

18 Again, the indictment names three defendants, only 19 one of which, as I told you before -- Mr. Kearney -- is on 20 trial before you. He is the only defendant whose guilt or 21 innocence you are to decide. The guilt or innocence of Mr.
22 Kearney is to be decided by you on the basis of the testimony
23 and other evidence in the case and on nothing else.

24 The fact that another defendant named in this
25 case -- that is, Joe Lee Jones, Jr. -- has entered a plea

1 of guilty, as he testified, to Count 3 is not to be taken
2 by you as evidence that Mr. Kearney is also guilty as charged
3 in the indictment. Again I repeat the guilt or innocence
4 of the defendant now on trial before you is personal and is 5 to be determined solely upon the testimony which you have 6 heard from the witnesses who took the witness stand here
7 and the exhibits which were actually received in evidence
8 and on nothing else.

10 During the course of the trial you heard the 11 testimony not only of Mr. Jones but of Mr. White, Avon
12 White, individuals who testified concerning their own
13 involvement in the crimes charged in the indictment. Under 14 the law they are called accomplices, and under the law in 15 order for one to be an accomplice, as I have indicated, he 16 must be concerned in or participate in the commission of the 17 crime with which a defendant is charged, he must be a
18 participant in that crime.

19 An accomplice does not become incompetent as a
20 witness because of his participation in the crime charged.
21 His testimony is not to be rejected unless the jury thinks 22 it has no weight. Like any other testimony, it is to be 23 considered and dealt with by the twelve men and women who 24 are the triers of the fact, and such evidence is properly
25 considered.

1 wc
2 However, it must be considered with care and
3 scrutiny, checked up with the other facts in the case, and 4 given due weight.

5 The testimony of an accomplice alone, if believed
6 by you, may be of such weight to sustain a verdict of guilt
7 on any count, even though it is not corroborated or supported
8 by other evidence in the case.

9 Again, you should keep in mind that the testimony
10 of an accomplice is always to be received with caution and 11 weighed with great care. You should never convict a
12 defendant upon the unsupported testimony of an accomplice
13 unless you believe that unsupported testimony beyond a 14 reasonable doubt.

15 You are instructed that, in weighing the testimony
16 of a Government witness charged as a co-conspirator in the 17 indictment, you may take into account any motives the 18 witness may have in testifying for the Government.

19 For example, the witness here, Mr. Jones, has 20 pleaded guilty to Count 3 and has not yet been sentenced.
21 He testified that he hopes that as a result of his 22 cooperation with the Government he will be dealt with 23 leniently.

24 Mr. Avon White testified to the same effect, that 25 he hoped to be dealt with leniently.

3 This factor does not disqualify the testimony of 4 these witnesses but may well affect the weight you give 5 their testimony in adjudging the guilt or innocence of 6 these defendants. Again, I want to point out, as I did,
7 I think, during the course of the trial, that when any 8 witnesses testified it is proper to bring out evidence from 9 which the jury may find that the particular witness has a
10 motive to testify falsely or to exaggerate his or her
11 testimony.

12 Again, the fact that Mr. Jones has pleaded guilty
13 and that Mr. White has made an admission of guilt is not 14 enough to find defendant Kearney guilty. You must 15 determine whether they offered believable testimony,
16 credible testimony, that Mr. Kearney committed the crimes
17 charged -- testimony that convinces you of his, Mr. Kearney's,
18 guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

19 You are not obliged to accept testimony, even 20 though the testimony is not impeached. You may decide 21 because of the witness' bearing and demeanor or because of 22 the inherent improbability of his testimony, or for other
23 reasons sufficient to you, that such testimony is not worthy 24 of belief.

25 The Constitution and the laws provide that in any criminal matter, as I have told you repeatedly now, the

2 defendant is under no obligation to testify or indeed come
3 forward with any evidence, because the burden of proving 4 a violation of the law is solely and exclusively on the 5 prosecution. I therefore charge you that you are not to 6 consider in any way the fact that the defendant, Mr. Kearney,
7 has chosen not to testify in this case. That is his right
8 under the law, and you are not permitted to speculate on 9 the reasons why he did not testify. Nor may you draw any 10 inference of any kind from his decision not to take the 11 stand. His decision is a choice shared by every defendant
12 in every criminal case in this country, and may in no way be 13 used against him as a substitute for or as a supplement to 14 the evidence before you.

15 Now coming to the indictment itself, I am going
16 to read each charge in the indictment separately, and then
17 I am going to tell you what the Government must have proved
18 beyond a reasonable doubt before you could find the defendant
19 guilty on a particular charge. In other words, I am going 20 to tell you about each element of a particular charge which 21 the Government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt.

22 If you find that the Government has failed to 23 prove any one of the elements of the crime charged as I
24 enumerate and discuss them for you, then you must acquit the 25 defendant on that particular charge.

As I have said, each charge will be read separately. The elements of each charge which the Government must establish will be set forth, enumerated, and I will discuss those which need discussion in greater detail. So you listen very carefully now to each charge in the indictment.

Charge 1 we call the conspiracy charge. Counts 2, 3, and 4 we call substantive charges. So I will start with the conspiracy charge, Count 1.

"The grand jury charges:

"From on or about the 1st day of June, 1973, up to and including the date of the filing of this indictment in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, Melvin Kearney, Phyllis Pollard and Joe Lee Jones, Jr., the defendants, and Twymon Myers (deceased) and Avon White, named herein as co-conspirators but not as defendants, unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly did combine, conspire and confederate and agree together, with each other and with divers other persons unknown to the grand jury, to commit offenses against the United States, to wit, to violate subdivisions (a), (b) and (d) of section 2113 of Title 18, United States Code.

"A. It was part of said conspiracy that the defendants unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly would take and attempt to take, by force and violence and by intimidation, from the person and presence of others, property and money belonging to, in the care, custody, control, management and possession of banks, the deposits of which were then and at all times referred to in this indictment insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Company (hereinafter 'federally insured').

"B. It was further a part of said conspiracy that the defendants unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly would take and carry away and would attempt to take and carry away with intent to steal and purloin, sums of money from banks, the deposits of which were federally insured.

"C. It was further a part of said conspiracy that the defendants unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly would assault and put in jeopardy the lives of persons by the use of dangerous weapons and devices, to wit, firearms.

"In furtherance of said conspiracy and to effect the objects thereof, the following overt acts, among others, were committed:

"1. On or about July 18, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, Twymon Myers (deceased), named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, drove an automobile containing the defendants Melvin Kearney, Phyllis Pollard, Joe Lee Jones, Jr., and Avon White, named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, to the vicinity of the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York.

"2. On or about July 18, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, the defendants Melvin Kearney, Phyllis Pollard, and Joe Lee Jones, and Avon White, named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, entered the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York.

"3. On or about July 18, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, the defendant Melvin Kearney discharged a firearm while on the premises of the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York.

"4. On or about July 18, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, Twymon Myers (deceased), named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, drove an automobile containing the defendants Melvin Kearney, Phyllis Pollard, Joe Lee Jones, Jr., and Avon White, named herein as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant, from the vicinity of the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York."

The indictment cites Title 18, United States Code, section 371.

Title 18, United States Code, section 371, provides in pertinent part as follows:

"If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States, or any agency thereof in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such persons does any act to effect the object of the conspiracy, each shall be guilty of a crime."

What is a conspiracy? A conspiracy is a collective criminal agreement, a partnership in crime. A conspiracy presents a greater potential threat to government and society than acts committed by a lone wrongdoer. For this reason the Congress has made conspiracy to violate a federal statute a separate crime. Concerted action for criminal purposes often, if not normally, makes possible the attainment of ends more complex than those which an individual acting alone could accomplish.

In order to prove the crime of conspiracy which I have just read to you from this indictment, the Government must establish to your satisfaction beyond a reasonable doubt each of the following essential elements of that crime:

First, the existence of the conspiracy, as alleged in the indictment;

Second, that it was a purpose of the conspiracy

as alleged in the indictment to violate Title 18, United States Code, section 2113(a), (b) and (d);

Third, that the defendant, Melvin Kearney, knowingly and wilfully became a participant or a member of the conspiracy;

Fourth, that at least one of the co-conspirators committed at least one of the overt acts set forth in the indictment which I have just read to you, in furtherance of the conspiracy and during the course of the conspiracy.

Now, I want to discuss each one of those four elements in greater detail.

First, the existence of the conspiracy as alleged in the indictment. To establish a conspiracy the Government is not required to show that two or more persons sat around a table and entered into a solemn compact orally or in writing stating that they have formed a conspiracy to violate the law, setting forth details of the plan, the means by which the unlawful project is to be carried out, or the part to be played by each co-conspirator. Indeed, it would be extraordinary if there were such a formal agreement or specific oral agreement.

Your common sense will tell you that when men in fact undertake to enter into a criminal conspiracy, much is left to unexpressed understanding. Conspirators do not usually reduce their agreements to writing or acknowledge them before a notary public, nor do they publicly broadcast their plans. From its very nature a conspiracy is almost invariably secret in origin and in execution.

Therefore, it is sufficient if you find that two or more persons in any manner, through any contrivance, impliedly or tacitly -- that means silently -- come to a common understanding to violate the law.

Ex ess language, as I have said, or specific words are not required to indicate assent or attachment to a conspiracy, nor is it required to find that all the co-conspirators alleged in the indictment joined in the conspiracy in order to find that a conspiracy existed. You need only find that one alleged co-conspirator, or the defendant and one other, entered into an unlawful agreement in order to find that a conspiracy existed.

In determining whether there has been an unlawful agreement, you may judge acts and conduct of the alleged co-conspirators which are done to carry out an apparent criminal purpose. The old adage "Actions speak louder than words" is applicable here. Usually the only evidence available of a conspiracy is that of disconnected acts, which, however, when taken together in connection with each other show a conspiracy to secure a particular result as satisfactorily and conclusively as more direct proof.

Proof concerning the accomplishment of the object of a conspiracy, if you find that it was accomplished, may be the most persuasive evidence of the existence of the conspiracy itself. In other words, success of the venture, if you believe it was successful, may be the best proof that a conspiracy existed.

In determining whether the conspiracy charged actually existed, you may consider the evidence of the acts and the conduct of the alleged conspirators as a whole, and the reasonable inferences to be drawn from such evidence.

If upon such consideration of the evidence you find beyond a reasonable doubt that the minds of at least two of the alleged co-conspirators met in an understanding way and that they agreed, as I have explained a conspiratorial agreement to you, to work together in furtherance of the unlawful scheme, then proof of the existence of the conspiracy, but only of its existence, is complete.

While the indictment charges that the conspiracy began on or about June 1, 1973, and continued up to on or about November 15, 1973, it is not essential that the Government prove that the conspiracy started and ended on or about those specific dates. It is sufficient if you find

2 that a conspiracy was formed and existed for some
3 substantial time within the period set forth in the indict-
4 ment, and that at least one of the overt acts as alleged in 5 the indictment was committed in furtherance of the conspiracy
6 during that period.

7 An overt act which you find did occur need not
8 have occurred on a specific date set forth in the indictment.
9 You need only find that it occurred no earlier than June 1,
10 1973, and no later than November 15, 1973.

11 Now, as to the second element -- that is, that you
12 must find that it was a purpose of the conspiracy to violate
13 Title 18, United States Code, section 2113(a), (b) and (d) --
14 the indictment charges that this was an object of the 15 conspiracy, that is, to violate these particular provisions
16 of the bank robbery statute. In order for you to find that 17 there was a conspiracy here, you must find that this was an 18 object of the conspiracy or the purpose of it.

19 Now we come to the third element of the conspiracy,
20 and that is that this defendant knowingly and wilfully 21 became a participant of or a member of the conspiracy. If 22 you conclude that a conspiracy as charged did exist and 23 that its purpose was to violate the bank robbery statute
24 sections which I referred to--and during the course of this 25 charge I will read those various sections--you must next determine whether the defendant on trial here was a member of the conspiracy, that is, whether he participated in the conspiracy with knowledge of its unlawful purposes and in furtherance of its unlawful objectives.

A defendant's participation in a conspiracy, like its existence, can be inferred from such facts and circumstances in evidence as logically sustain that inference. I want to caution you, however, that mere association of one defendant with an alleged conspirator or conspirators does not establish his participation in the conspiracy if you find that one did exist. So, too, mere knowledge by a defendant of the conspiracy or of any illegal act on the part of an alleged co-conspirator is not sufficient evidence to establish his membership in the conspiracy. That is because you must find, as I have said, actual, knowing and wilful participation by this defendant in the agreement to violate the law.

An act is done knowingly if it is done voluntarily and purposefully and not because of mistake, accident, mere negligence, or some other innocent reason. An act is done wilfully if it is done knowingly, deliberately, and with an evil motive or purpose. In determining whether a defendant has acted wilfully, it is not necessary for the Government to establish that defendant knew that he was breaking any

1 particular law or any particular rule. It must, however,
2 prove that defendant had an evil motive or bad purpose in 3 mind.

5 Simply stated, and by using the partnership
6 analogy, by becoming a partner, one who joins a conspiracy
7 assumes all the liabilities of the partnership.

9 Once you are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt
10 that a conspiracy as alleged existed and that defendant
11 was a member of it, any acts and declarations of any person
12 who you find was also a member of the conspiracy made during 13 its pendency and in furtherance of its objectives are con-
14 sidered, as I said a moment ago, the acts and declarations
15 of all other members, even though the particular defendant
16 was not present at the time or did not know that such 17 statements were made or such acts were done by others in 18 furtherance of the conspiracy. Because, as I have said, you
19 may apply the partnership analogy, that is, that one who 20 becomes a partner assumes all of the liabilities of the 21 partnership or assumes responsibility for all the acts
22 done by the partnership -- in this case all the acts done
23 in furtherance of the conspiracy or anything said in 24 furtherance of the conspiracy.
25

Now we come to the fourth and final element which you must find -- the fourth element being that at least one of the co-conspirators committed at least one of the overt acts. The fourth element is because the offense of conspiracy is complete only when the unlawful agreement is made and any single overt act to effect the object of the conspiracy is thereof committed by at least one of the co-conspirators.

An overt act is any step, action or conduct which is taken to achieve, accomplish, or further the objects of the conspiracy. The purpose of requiring proof of an overt act is that while parties might conspire and agree to do an unlawful thing, they may change their minds or even abandon the project and do nothing to carry it into effect, in which event it would not be an offense. Therefore, proof of an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy is required.

The prosecution is not required to set forth in the indictment each and every act on which it relies to establish the conspiracy or the defendant's participation therein, nor is it required to prove each overt act which may have occurred during and in furtherance of the conspiracy. But, as I have said, it is required to prove that at least one overt act as charged in the indictment did take place here in the Southern District of New York, which includes the Bronx.

The overt act need not be criminal in and of itself, but it must be an act which tends toward the accomplishment of the plan or scheme charged in the conspiracy count and must be knowingly done in furtherance of some object of the conspiracy.

You will recall that during my discussion of this conspiracy count I told you that a conspirator, one who is found to be a member of the conspiracy, is liable for the acts and statements of his co-conspirators, provided that they were said or done within the scope of the unlawful agreement as the defendant saw it during the pendency of the conspiracy and in furtherance of its objectives.

Accordingly, with respect to Counts 2, 3, and 4, which charge bank robbery, bank larceny, and armed bank robbery, I instruct you that if you find beyond a reasonable doubt, first, that Avon White, Phyllis Pollard, Joe Lee Jones, and Twymon Myers were members of a conspiracy and committed the acts charged in Counts 2, 3, and 4 of this indictment, and, second, that defendant Melvin Kearney was a member of the conspiracy, and, third, that the crimes charged in Counts 2, 3, and 4 were committed in furtherance of the conspiracy or its objective, then you may find that the defendant Melvin Kearney is guilty of Counts 2, 3, and 4.

1 WC
2 In other words, if you find that the Government
3 has established each and every essential element of those 4 substantive crimes which I am about to get to, and that they
5 were part of a conspiracy as alleged in the indictment,
6 you may find Mr. Kearney guilty of each one of those crimes
7 if you find that, as I have said, he was a member of the 8 conspiracy and that those crimes were committed in furtherance
9 of the conspiracy.

10 Now we come to those substantive counts, as we 11 call them. I have finished discussion of the conspiracy
12 count. Count 2 of the indictment charges Mr. Kearney with 13 bank robbery. Although there was only one bank robbery
14 involved here, the indictment may charge the four separate
15 crimes set forth in this indictment with respect to that one
16 bank robbery, because each of these are separate crimes.
17 And I told you that conspiracy is a separate crime in and 18 of itself. Now that I have finished that, I will move to 19 Count 2, which reads as follows:

20 "That on or about the 18th day of July, 1973, in 21 the Southern District of New York, Melvin Kearney, Phyllis
22 Pollard, and Joe Lee Jones, Jr., the defendants, and Twymon
23 Myers (deceased) and Avon White, not named herein as 24 defendants, unlawfully, wilfully, and knowingly did, by 25 force and violence and by intimidation, take from the person and presence of another property and money in the approximate amount of $5,000 belonging to and in the care, custody, control, management and possession of First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York, a bank, the deposits of which were then insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation."

With respect to this charge, the indictment cites Title 18 United States Code, section 2113(a). That statute reads in pertinent part as follows:

"Whoever, by force and violence, or by intimidation, takes or attempts to take, from the person or presence of another any property or money or any other thing of value belonging to, or in the care, custody, control, management, or possession of, any bank, is guilty of a crime."

In order to find the defendant guilty of this charge, you must find the following seven elements have been established beyond a reasonable doubt:

First, that there was a conspiracy as charged in Count 1;

Second, that defendant was a member of the conspiracy;

Third, that on or about July 18, 1973, the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York, was a bank the deposits of which were insured by the

510

2 Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation;

3 Fourth, that on or about July 18, 1973, one or 4 more members of the conspiracy, in furtherance of the 5 conspiracy, took money from the bank which belonged to or 6 was in the care, custody, control, management or possession
7 of that bank;

8 Fifth, that the money was taken from the person
9 or presence of one or more persons other than the defendants;

10 Sixth, that a member of the conspiracy accomplished
11 this taking by force and violence or by intimidation;

12 Seventh, that a member of the conspiracy knowingly
13 and wilfully did the act or acts charged.

14 There are a couple of these elements that I think 15 need further explanation. As to the sixth element, which 16 is that the taking of the money must have been accomplished
17 by force and violence or by intimidation, a few words of 18 explanation may be useful. With respect to this sixth
19 element, the Government is not required to show that force
20 and violence were actually used against anyone if it proves 21 beyond a reasonable doubt that the taking was the result of 22 intimidation -- that is, the result of placing another person
23 or persons in fear. Intimidation may be established by 24 proof of circumstances that are normally and reasonably 25 calculated to arouse fear in the ordinary run of human beings.

So if it happened that some extraordinarily timid person was put in fear by some sort of words or action which would not normally frighten anyone, this would not be the kind of an intimidation with which the statute is concerned.

On the other hand, if the proof shows conduct by a defendant which would normally be expected to generate fear, then it is not necessary that those affected should actually have experienced some terror or panic or hysteria. The question, in short, in this respect is an objective one: It is whether the Government has sustained its burden of showing conduct of the accused which was of such nature as to be a sensible and reasonable basis for the creation of fear.

As to the seventh element, I believe I have already referred to, and defined for you what is meant by knowingly and wilfully. I will not repeat those definitions again. But, with respect to each one of these charges, before the defendant can be found guilty you must find that he acted unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly.

Now we come to the third count of the indictment, and that charges bank larceny as distinguished from bank robbery. That counts reads as follows:

"On or about the 18th day of July, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, Melvin Kearney, Phyllis Pollard and Joe Lee Jones, Jr., the defendants, and Twymon Myers (deceased) and Avon White, not named herein as defendants, unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly, and with intent to steal and purloin, did take and carry away property and money in the approximate amount of $5,000 belonging to and in the care, custody, control, management and possession of First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York, a bank the deposits of which were then insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Company."

With respect to this count the indictment cites Title 18, United States Code, section 2113(b). That statute provides in pertinent part as follows:

"Whoever takes and carries away, with intent to steal or purloin, any property or money or any other thing of value exceeding $100 belonging to or in the care, custody, control, management or possession of any bank..." is guilty of a crime.

In order to find the defendant guilty on Count 3, you must find the Government has established each of the following elements beyond a reasonable doubt:

First, the existence of a conspiracy as charged in Count 1;

Second, that defendant Kearney was a member of the conspiracy;

Third, that on or about July 18, 1973, the First National City Bank at 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York, was a bank the deposits of which were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation;

Fourth, that a member of the conspiracy, in furtherance of the conspiracy, took and carried away approximately $5,000 which belonged to or was in the care, custody, control, management or possession of that bank;

Fifth, that such taking and carrying away was with an intent to steal and purloin; and

Sixth, that the members of the conspiracy acted unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly.

As for the fifth element, that the taking and carrying away was with an intent to steal and purloin, I want to say a word. The word "steal" has a broad meaning. It simply means an unlawful taking of property with the intent to deprive the owner of his property. "Purloin" is merely another word for steal.

Now we come to the fourth and final count of the indictment, which is the armed bank robbery count, and that count reads as follows:

"On or about the 18th day of July, 1973, in the Southern District of New York, Melvin Kearney, Phyllis Pollard

1 and Joe Lee Jones, Jr., the defendants, and Twymon Myers
2 (deceased) and Avon White, not named herein as defendants,
3 in committing and attempting to commit the offenses alleged 4 in the second and third counts of this indictment, all
5 allegations of which are incorporated herein by reference,
6 unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly did assault and put in 7 jeopardy the lives of persons by the use of dangerous
8 weapons and devices, to wit, firearms."

10 In this connection the indictment cites Title 18,
11 section 2113(d). That section reads as follows. Well, I
12 will give you the pertinent parts of that particular
13 section. That section makes it a crime if in the course
14 of the commission of a bank robbery or a bank larceny the 15 persons accused assaults any persons or puts in jeopardy the 16 life of any person by the use of a dangerous weapon or 17 device.

18 In order to find the defendant guilty of Count 4, 19 you must find that the defendant is guilty of Counts 2 or 20 3 or both. Because, as I have said, this has to do with the 21 assault or putting in jeopardy during the course of a bank
22 robbery or a bank larceny. In addition, you must find
23 beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant in the course
24 of committing that crime, bank robbery or bank larceny or 25 both, either assaulted one or more persons or by the use of

1 wc
2 a dangerous weapon or weapons, that is, firearms, put in 3 jeopardy the lives of one or more persons.

4 As I have indicated, this count requires a
5 finding either that there was an assault or that the life
6 of a person or the lives of more than one person were put 7 in jeopardy by the use of a dangerous weapon.

8 It is not essential to find both an assault and 9 an endangering of lives by the use of a dangerous weapon.

10 In considering this particular count, you have to 11 keep in mind and attempt to remember the legal definition
12 of the word "assault." That word is defined to refer to an 13 unlawful attempt or threat to apply force and violence, to 14 inflict bodily harm, when the attempt or threat is coupled 15 with an apparent present ability to carry it out, such as 16 to arouse fear in the intended threatened victim that he 17 would be subject to immediate physical injury.

18 An assault, as it is defined in law, may be 19 committed without actually touching or striking or doing
20 bodily harm to the person in question. For example, the 21 flourishing or pointing of a gun or pistol at another person
22 for the purpose of putting that other person in fear is 23 sufficient to constitute an assault.

24 As I have said, even if you find no assault, this 25 charge may nevertheless be established if you find that the

1 wc
2 life of one or more persons was put in jeopardy by the use
3 of a dangerous weapon in this case. To justify such a
4 finding in this case, you must be convinced beyond a reason-
5 able doubt that one of the alleged robbers carried one or 6 more firearms, which was drawn and loaded.

7 As I said a moment ago, with respect to each one
8 of these counts you must find that the defendant acted 9 unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly. Obviously, unlawful 10 means contrary to law. Again, if an act is done knowingly,

11 it is done voluntarily and purposefully and not because 12 of mistake, accident, mere negligence or other innocent
13 reason. An act is done wilfully if it is done knowingly,
14 deliberately, intentionally, and with an evil motive or 15 purpose.

16 In determining whether a person has acted wilfully,
17 it is not necessary for the Government to establish that 18 that person knew that he was breaking any particular law or 19 any particular rule. But the Government must show bad
20 purpose or motive on the part of the defendant.

21 Again, with respect to each count, if you find 22 that the Government has failed to establish any one of the 23 essential elements of the crimes charged, as I have just 24 enumerated them for you and discussed them for you in 25 detail, beyond a reasonable doubt, you must acquit the

2 defendant of that particular count which you were then
3 considering.

4 If, on the other hand, you find that the Government
5 has established each and every one of the essential
6 elements beyond a reasonable doubt as to that particular
7 charge, then you may find the defendant guilty of that charge.

8 The jury is not to consider or in any way to 9 speculate about the punishment which a defendant may 10 receive if he is found guilty. The function of a jury is 11 to determine the guilt or innocence of a defendant on the 12 basis of the evidence and the Court's instructions as to 13 the law. It is then for the Court alone to determine what 14 the punishment will be or what the sentence will be, if 15 there is a conviction.

16 The most important part of this case, ladies and 17 gentlemen, is the part which you now as jurors are about to 18 play, because it is for you and you alone to determine
19 whether this defendant is guilty or not guilty with respect
20 to each charge made against him in this indictment.

21 I know you will try the issues that have been 22 presented to you according to the oath which you have taken
23 as jurors. In that oath you promised that you would well
24 and truly try the issues joined and a true verdict render.

25 I suggest to you that if you follow that oath and

1 wc
2 try the issues without combining your thinking with any
3 emotions, you will arrive at a just verdict.

4 It must be clear to you that once you get into 5 an emotional state and let fear or prejudice or bias or 6 sympathy interfere with your thinking, then you will not
7 arrive at a true and just verdict.

8 As you deliberate, ladies and gentlemen, please
9 be careful to listen to the opinions of your fellow jurors
10 and to ask for an opportunity to express your own views.
11 That is because no one juror holds the center stage in the 12 jury room and no one juror may control or monopolize the 13 deliberations. If, after listening to your fellow jurors
14 and after stating your own view, you become convinced that 15 your view is wrong, do not hesitate because of stubbornness
16 or pride of opinion to change your view. On the other hand, 17 do not surrender your honest conviction solely because of 18 the opinion of your fellow jurors or because you are out-
19 numbered.

20 Again, with respect to each count, your verdict
21 must be unanimous and your verdict must be either guilty or 22 not guilty.

23 When you go to the jury room to deliberate, you
24 may send for any exhibits you want to see or have any 25 testimony read back.

2 You are instructed that you are not to reveal
3 the standing of the jurors, that is, the split of the vote
4 at any time to any one for any reason, including the Court.

5 Will counsel please approach the bench.

6 (In the robing room)

7 THE COURT: Mr. Berman, do you have any exceptions
8 to the charge?

9 MR. BERMAN: Do you want those first or my remarks
10 on Mr. Hemley's summation?

11 THE COURT: No. I will take the exceptions. We 12 will take Mr. Hemley's summation after the jury has gone
13 out. Do you want to make a motion for a mistrial?

14 MR. BERMAN: Yes, I do.

15 THE COURT: We will take that after the jury goes 16 out.

17 MR. BERMAN: Very well. I have just four 18 specific matters and two general matters.

19 In the charge that you gave on impeachment
20 because of conviction for a prior felony, you had indicated
21 before summations that you were going to give my Request
22 No. 6, but you only gave the first third of it and you left
23 out the part charging them that Avon and Joe Lee have been 24 convicted of felonies, and that is a legal matter which has 25 to be told to the jury: that what those men have been crime? Juror No. 5.

22

A (PJ 5) Yes.

23

Q Juror No. 5. What crime were you charged with?

24

A Drugs.

25

Q When was that?

D-1

2 A 1970.

3 Q 1970?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And did you go to trial in that case?

6 A No. I pleaded guilty.

7 Q I see. What drug was involved?

8 A Possession of marijuana.

9 Q Possession of marijuana. You say that was 1970?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Was that a felony?

12 A Well, I do have another case in California, which 13 is a felony. This was a misdemeanor.

14 Q You have a felony conviction in California?

15 A Yes.

16 Q I think you are disqualified by that reason.

17 MR. BERMAN: Your Honor, may we have a side bar
18 first?

19 THE COURT: Yes.

20 (At the side bar)

21 MR. BERMAN: Before the Court rules on disqualify-
22 ing him, perhaps if we can ask him another question or two 23 about what the nature of the crime is. It may well be that 24 he thinks it is a felony but it is not a felony. And his 25 opinion doesn't make much of a difference as to whether it

1 wc

34-10

2 was a felony or not. At least we ought to have him describe
3 in somewhat more detail what it was.

4 MR. HEMLEY: In the absence of any court record, I
5 think we are bound by his representation as to what it was.
6 Even short of a felony, a man with two convictions on his
7 record can hardly be impartial in judging another man guilty
8 or innocent. He must necessarily have drawn some conclusions
9 about law enforcement and criminal procedures.

10 THE COURT: Yes. You see, the prospective juror
11 himself made the distinction before I could even ask him.
12 He knew the difference between a felony and a misdemeanor
13 on his own. So it seems to me clear that he was convicted
14 of a felony in California, and he is disqualified by 15 statute. So there cannot be any waiving of that. If he 16 has been convicted of a felony, he is disqualified as a matter
17 of law.

18 MR. HEMLEY: And I think, your Honor, rather than 19 wait until we find out for sure --

20 THE COURT: He may say something prejudicial.

21 MR. HEMLEY: Why risk a mistrial? Dispose of it
22 quickly.

23 MR. BERMAN: I want two quick things to say for the 24 record. One is that we should just ask him what crime it
25 was, because he may be mistaken.

THE COURT: He said he has a felony in California.

MR. BERMAN: In any event, my position is that the statute that would automatically exclude anyone with a felony conviction is unconstitutional, in that it deprives Mr. Kearney of a right to trial by a jury of his peers, and there is nothing in and of the mere fact of a felony conviction that makes one not capable to serve on a jury. A felony conviction may well be some ridiculous marijuana conviction in California back in the late sixties, which was then a felony, for possession of over an eighth of an ounce or something like that. And unless we know what the facts are, at least the basic fact as to what the crime was, to merely say that because he thinks he was convicted of a felony he is disqualified for cause deprives Mr. Kearney of his right to trial by the first twelve jurors who come into that box, unless disqualified for cause or challenged peremptorily.

THE COURT: I can ask him if he has been pardoned. I think the statute provides that if he has been pardoned or he has had his civil rights restored he can then serve. I will just ask him that additional question.

MR. HEMLEY: I have no objection.

2 Q Juror No. 5. I believe you said you were
3 convicted of a felony in California?

4 A Yes.

5 Q What did that involve?

6 A Sales of drugs.

7 Q What kind of drug was involved?

8 A Heroin.

9 MR. HEMLEY: What was the answer?

10 A Heroin.

11 Q Heroin. Have you been pardoned for that crime?

12 A No; I was sentenced.

13 Q I see.

14 A To a YA, they called it up there, Youthful 15 Offender. I was a minor.

16 Q How old were you at the time?

17 A 18, going on 19.

18 Q And your conviction was not wiped out as a Youthful 19 Offender?

20 A Well, I never checked into it. It's been some like 21 fifteen, fourteen years.

22 Q How much time did you spend in prison?

23 A Sixteen months.

24 Q Was that a state court in California?

25 A Yes.

D-5

2 MR. BERMAN: Your Honor, I would like to be heard
3 again.

4 THE COURT: All right.

5 (At the side bar)

6 MR. BERMAN: On reasoning based on experience and 7 analogy here, in drug cases in state courts there are 8 gradations by weight, gradations which aren't prominent in 9 the federal drug laws, and he may well mean that he was 10 convicted of a felony weight, but if it was as a YA in 11 California, assuming that is analogous to a YO in New York
12 State courts, Youthful Offender adjudication, in New York
13 in the state courts that is not a conviction of a crime.
14 It is an adjudication as a Youthful Offender, based on an 15 underlying act which if committed by an adult would be a 16 crime.

17 I for one do not believe that the statute that 18 will exclude felony convicted jurors from sitting on a jury
19 would also exclude one who is convicted as a youth, which 20 again is adjudicated a Youthful Offender and which may not 21 be an adjudication of a crime. In New York State it is not 22 considered a criminal conviction.

23 THE COURT: What year did he say this was?

24 MR. BERMAN: Fourteen years ago.

25 THE COURT: You know, fourteen years ago, under

D-6

2 the federal law, a Youthful Offender could not be treated,
3 as I recall, as a Youthful Offender, for a charge of this
4 character. Am I recalling that correctly?

5 MR. HEMLEY: Your Honor, I would just say this:
6 It seems to me we are on very thin ground here and engaging
7 in speculation as to what the California law was fourteen
8 years ago. The man served sixteen months in prison. By 9 federal standards that would necessarily involve a felony
10 charge. For us to risk a mistrial and later find out that 11 the Youthful Offender treatment was a felony seems to me to 12 be very uncautious.

13 MR. BERMAN: I can solve that problem.

14 MR. HEMLEY: In addition, a man who has had, as 15 I previously stated at the side bar, the kind of encounters
16 that this gentleman has had with the law cannot have an 17 open slate with respect to the administration of criminal 18 justice. He has had two drug encounters with the law. I
19 think he should be disqualified for cause.

20 MR. BERMAN: Your Honor, I would waive any 21 objection if it should turn out that under the California
22 law fourteen years ago that was a felony. We are making no
23 claim later of a mistrial or an error. I will waive any 24 objection to that. I am arguing that the fact that he did
25 sixteen months was in an institution for Youthful Offenders

D-7

1 WC

2 a reformatory sentence, is not necessarily more than 3 year necessarily being a felony sentence. That is not
4 regarded as a punitive sentence. It is regarded as a
5 special youth sentence and can't be analogized automatically
6 to a felony sentence.

7 MR. HEMLEY: He also said that he was convicted
8 of a felony.

9 THE COURT: Yes. I think it is quite possible that 10 in California, even a youth charged with selling heroin was 11 guilty of a felony. I think that was true in the federal 12 system. He could not be treated as a Youthful Offender.
13 And it was not until the amendment to the drug laws in 1970
14 or thereabouts, I think, that the Youthful Offenders were 15 entitled to that treatment at time of sentence for the sale
16 of heroin. So it is quite possible that he is telling us
17 correctly that it was a felony.

18 I think what you are overlooking, Mr. Berman, is 19 the Government is entitled to a fair trial too. You are 20 saying that the defendant is entitled to a fair trial.
21 But the Government is too. And to have somebody on there
22 who has been twice convicted would be unfair to the Govern-
23 ment, especially when one was a felony.

24 MR. BERMAN: He said it was a Youthful adjudica-
25 tion.

MEMORANDUM OPINION DENYING MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL
(November 11, 1974)

Memorandum Opinion and Order

Pursuant to Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure 33 and 34, 18 U. S. C. § 3500, the Due Process clause of the Fifth Amendment and the authority of Brady v. Maryland, 373 U. S. 83 (1963), defendant in 73 Cr. 1039 moves for arrest of judgment, for dismissal of the indictment, or, in the alternative, for a new trial on the grounds that the Government failed to disclose exculpatory and inconsistent statements by its chief witness, Avon White. In particular it is claimed that the report of the September 17, 1973 FBI interview of Avon White (at oral argument referred to as the "Margaret Statement") should have been turned over to the defense before the cross-examination of White.^{L/} The Government agrees that the report was "3500 material" and should have been turned over pursuant to this court's pretrial order of March 23, 1974 granting the defendant's various discovery motions of March 13, 1974. The Government contends, however, that the failure to turn over the "Margaret statement" was inadvertent, and accordingly opposes the relief sought by defendant on these post-trial motions. For the reasons which follow, the court agrees with the Government and denies defendant's motion.

Citing a number of circumstances, defendant maintains that the Government's failure to turn over the "Margaret statement" was deliberate, and hence urges the court to adopt the somewhat relaxed test applicable to such deliberate action. The test is that a new trial is warranted if the undisclosed evidence thus deliberately withheld is merely favorable to the defendant. Giglio v. United States, 405 U. S. 150, 153-154 (1972). Alternatively, the defense would be satisfied were the court to characterize the failure as inexcusable and grant the requested relief. Under this theory, if it is shown that the evidence was of such a high value that it could not have escaped the prosecutor's attention, relief would be warranted without requiring a showing that the suppression was intentional. United States v. Kahn, 472 F.2d 212, 287 (2d Cir.), cert. denied, 411 U. S. 931 (1973).

Defendant's claim that the "Margaret statement" was intentionally omitted from the "3500 material" properly turned over is defeated by the fact that the Government did turn over numerous materials including reports of other statements made by Avon White to the FBI which were far more exculpatory and more useful for purposes of impeachment than the "Margaret statement" at issue in this motion. In particular, the Government turned over Exhibit "3513", an FBI report of an interview with Avon White on September 26, 1973. In "3513" White left out the defendant's name in his list of the participants of the bank robbery with which the defendant was charged in the instant indictment. The exculpatory value of "3513" could hardly be surpassed by any other document. It goes to all crimes charged in the indictment, both inchoate and complete. Defense counsel skillfully exploited this omission at trial. (Tr. 376-77, and 437-38.)

Further, the "Margaret statement" was not of such a high value that it could not have escaped the prosecutor's attention. In that statement co-defendant Phyllis Pollard was not named as a participant. Instead, Avon White had told FBI agents that someone named "Margaret" had been the female participant. However, the same statement does name defendant Kearney as a participant. In the view of the prosecutor, it was merely another recitation of the crimes which the FBI had been investigating. The same information was available in other reports. Dictum in a recent case decided in the Second Circuit suggests that the failure to turn over FBI reports such as the one at issue is compatible with the conclusion, which the court makes here, that such failure was inadvertent. United States v. Spelling, et al.

___ 7.2d ___ (2d Cir., decided October 10, 1974) (Docket No. 73-236) (Slip Op. at 5649).

Viewing the failure to turn over the "Margaret statement" as inadvertent, and applying the appropriate test as outlined in United States v. Kohn, supra, the court concludes that retrial is not warranted. The court agrees with defense counsel that the "Margaret statement" is relevant to the conspiracy count of which defendant was convicted. However, its persuasive value — even developed by skilled counsel — is not such that it would have induced a reasonable doubt as to avoid conviction. As the court sees it, the "Margaret statement" is merely cumulative, and accordingly denies relief based on the Government's failure to disclose the statement.

Defendant also seeks relief on the ground that the Government failed to reveal the full extent of the deal reached with Avon White, in violation of the court's order of March 23, 1974. Insofar as the nature of the deal was brought out on cross-examination, and fully exploited for the benefit of the defendant at trial, the court denies the relief sought.

Finally, as a miscellaneous matter, the remaining post-trial motions proffered in 73 Cr. 1039, and 74 Cr. 242 are denied without opinion as meritless.

Dated: New York, New York

November 11, 1974

SO ORDERED

CONSTANCE BAKER MOTLEY
U. S. D. J.

1.

That portion of the "Margaret statement" on which defendant relies reads as follows:

"On July 12, 1973, AVON WHITE, MELVIN KEARNEY, TWYNON MYERS, the girl named MARGARET and a male by the name of JOE, participated in the armed robbery of the First National City Bank, 1855 Bruckner Boulevard, Bronx, New York. WHITE advised that MYERS, [and] the girl known as MARGARET stole the car used in this robbery from Queens College."

Defendant's position is that this statement is exculpatory as to the defendant Kearney since he is charged in the indictment, inter alia, as having conspired with Phyllis Pollard, as opposed to having conspired with a person named Margaret. It is also claimed that the statement would have been useful in the impeachment of the Government's witness, Avon White, since it is inconsistent with other accounts of the robbery in which he names Phyllis Pollard, rather than Margaret.
